Carry in Style

Linksoul is a company that's behind some of the hottest golf apparel today, but its Linksouldier Golf Bag is one of the most subtle, yet stylish ways to carry your clubs.

Available in charcoal or an army green color, the Linksouldier bag weighs only 4.8 lbs. and is a breeze to carry. Storm flap pocket closures, a beverage pocket, and ample space for anything you carry to the course is welcome in this heathered-material bag. Its wide stand mechanism provides ideal balance when it stands up or gets strapped to a golf cart.

Ready Player 2

A "tradition unlike any other" deserves a fun shirt like any other, and the Magnolia t-shirt from Player 2 hits on so many levels. The brand's signature gloved hand dropping a second ball is an ode to one of the most iconic logos in golf. Made from a silky smooth cotton, it has a trendy heathered look in green, navy, or gray. Player 2 prides itself on the stretch and recovery of its shirts, so give it plenty of wear in April and beyond. This tee is a limited edition, so get yours now!

Ready to Ryze

Tour Edge knows how to build high-performance hybrids, and the new Exotics C722 is a low-profile design that's intended for the better player. It's also a compliment to its E722 hybrid which is built for more of your everyday player. Even though this hybrid is designed to be a low-spin club, it still launches high as a hybrid is intended to do. The main feature is Ryzersole Technology which keeps the CG low. A fully adjustable hosel and three premium stock shafts to choose from make this club the ultimate tweener for low handicap players.

Up Your IQ

Big Max is behind some of the biggest advancements in push cart technology, and the new IQ 360 model gives you a compact-folding cart that's big on maneuvering. The front wheel rotates 360-degrees for effortless turning while also having full ability to lock in place, even on hilly terrain. An expanded organizer panel gives you plenty of room for accessories and the one-move folding mechanism makes getting this cart broken down and loaded up as simple as one...two...well, actually it's just one.

Let's Ride!

The Divnick Golf HeyBike Ranger is revolutionizing the way you get around the golf course. If you're a single-rider, this is a fun and fresh way to change up your hole-to-hole commute. This bike has a powerful 500 watt motor and can go up to 25 MPH on cart paths. On grass, the bike has all-purpose tires that are puncture-resistant and make for a smooth, comfortable ride. Intelligent Pedal Assist has seven levels of speed if you don't feel like pedaling for a few holes. Two rounds of battery life, USB charger, and a heavy-duty rack for your clubs makes this bike a breeze on the course.

Be Still My Hips and Shoulders

Very few golfers have heard of the crucial motion measurements of hip and shoulder sway, yet they are two important parts of the golf swing. The inventors of the Eclipse Golf training aid have come up with a genius product to help keep your hips and shoulder from moving away from the target in the backswing (doing so moves your low point away from the ball, and that's a bad thing). If you've ever hit a ball thin or hit the ground behind the ball (chunks) don't listen to your buddy who tells you to keep your head down (the worst piece of advice in the history of golf). Instead, you need to keep your hips and shoulders from moving away from the target during your backswing. When using the eclipse, a black top disc covers a white bottom disk. During the backswing, if you see any portion of the white bottom disk (aka, an eclipse), then you know you are swaying away from the target.
