

THE GOOD STUFF

Mallet Meets Blade

If you prefer a blade putter over a mallet putter, then the new Envroll V5.2 could be for you. The stainless-steel face and front section of each putter provides the feel of a blade from the hitting area, while the rear aluminum chassis and four tungsten weights positioned deep and low offer the CG and MOI benefits of a mallet. It was designed by Guerin Rife, who came up with innovative wands for his Rife Putter Company and other manufacturers for years. The clean, cool look of stainless steel and black prongs emits confidence, leading to more made putts.

$429 www.evnroll.com

Skort with Style

The Kerry Skort from Emyvale blends elegance and performance. Moisture-wicking vibrant materials move and breathe with you on the course. With built-in shorts and four pockets you can stroll the course in style.

$125 www.emyvalegolf.com

Must Be the Shoes

Americans love almost everything from Italy, so why not golf shoes!? Duca del Cosma, an Italian company with a US base, has an extensive line of men's and women's footwear offerings. The Grado has just been released to the public and might just be "The Golf Shoe of the Year!" This stylish, comfortable yet rugged design is the ideal footwear for those trips to the unpredictable links weather across the pond, or here in the Midwest spring. They're lightweight with a waterproof Bootie System to keep your feet dry in any weather. This men's shoe is available in black or white.

$179.00 www.ducadelcosma.us

Just Tap It In

Can it really be almost 30 years since the original Happy Gilmore movie release? Odyssey is launching a limited release Hockey Stick Putter to coincide with the release of Happy Gilmore 2 at the end of July. Offering a 21" putter grip, it encourages one to use a slap shot type of putting stroke. Construction includes a black stepless steel shaft and Odyssey's White Hot urethane insert. The headcover might be the head turner as it sports the Boston Bruins black/gold color combination, an ode to the jersey worn by Adam Sandler in the original movie.

$499.99 www.callawaygolf.com

A Better Way to Hydrate

PLEZi is a brand of fruit-flavored drinks co-founded by former First Lady Michelle Obama and supported by NBA star Stephen Curry, aimed at providing a healthier beverage option for kids. Launched as part of a broader initiative to improve children's nutrition, PLEZi drinks contain less sugar than traditional fruit juices and sodas, while still delivering flavor and essential nutrients like fiber and potassium. They use natural sweeteners and no added sugar, positioning themselves as a smart alternative for parents looking to reduce their children's sugar intake. With vibrant packaging and kid-friendly flavors, PLEZi also aligns with broader public health efforts to combat childhood obesity and encourage healthier lifestyle habits from an early age. We've tried it and it tastes great.

www.plezi.com

Collar Poppin'

Fairway & Greene just released their new line, Custom Cutaway Polos. The new offering provides a lighter-weight fabric and more freedom of movement. Including a slightly tailored fit and contrasting color placket to make you stand out on the course, the Bryant Stripe polo will be sure to be your go to. The memory wire collar will allow you to just be you.

$89 www.fairwayandgreene.com

Snakebit: A Reason to Love CobraTec Irons

Cobra King Forged TEC irons blend traditional aesthetics with modern performance technologies, making them a top choice for low to mid-handicap golfers seeking precision and distance. Crafted from 1025 carbon steel and precision-forged five times, these irons offer a soft, player-preferred feel. The hollow body design is filled with lightweight foam microspheres, enhancing acoustics and providing responsive feedback at impact.

Starting at $185 per club. www.cobragolf.com